Tennessee Gas official says:

Pipeline work causes a few Hancock rumbles

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Rumbling sounds heard by Hancock County residents occasionally may be the result of repair work on a large gas pipeline.

Lee Roy Cates, Tennessee Gas Pipeline's district superintendent based in Heidelberg, reported during a recent meeting at the Diamondhead Country Club with local officials that a pipeline 'blowdown' generally produces a 'tremendous noise' in the form of a rumbling sound.

Tennessee Gas, one of four Tenneco, Inc. natural gas transportation divisions, owns two parallel underground pipelines which cross Hancock from the Ansley Community northward through the Crane Creek area.

Cates said one line is 36 inches in diameter and the other is 30 inches, both capable of containing 936 pounds per square inch of pressurized gas and transmitting one to two billion cubic feet of gas through the country daily.

He reported most of the gas comes from offshore Louisiana wells and a relatively small amount is drawn from Waveland and Catahoula Field wells.

The pipelines in Hancock are part of a 2,200-mile transmission line which extends to supply gas retailing companies in the New England states, Cates explained.

The district superintendent said that occasionally maintenance work will require a line blowdown in which gas is evacuated from a section of the pipeline usually 15 miles in length.

He added the blowdown is a 'rare occurrence,' but local law enforcement agencies and surrounding residents are notified so they are not surprised by the noisy operation.

Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson confirmed this week that Tennessee Gas officials contact his office whenever there is a blowdown in this area.

Tennessee Gas owns and operates a gas pumping station named Plant No. 530 in Ansley which is one of five the company maintains in Mississippi, Cates said.

He reported about once every two months a 'pigging process' in which a metal ball is forced through a line for cleaning purposes is conducted between Ansley and the next station in Purvis.

Cates said this process does not produce a rumbling sound. The district superintendent said gas line pressure is still at its maximum level and pumps remain off at the Ansley facility due to a lack of consumption in the New England area.

The Sea Coast Echo reported about one year ago that a slump in gas usage caused the plant's first lengthy pump shutdown since the pipeline and station were built in 1959.

The primary purpose of the recent Diamondhead meeting was to familiarize local firefighters and law enforcement officers with pipeline identification markers and what action they should take in the event a line ruptures or catches fire.

Cates' primary message regarding a leak or fire was basically for everyone to evacuate the immediate area and contact Tennessee Gas.

A Tennessee gas line fire in Hancock would produce a flame 500 feet high, Cates warned.

He said employees at the Ansley plant are capable of controlling any pipeline fire and could be at the scene in a matter of minutes.

The district superintendent reported local law enforcement agencies would be needed primarily for traffic control.

Firefighters might also be needed to cool any threatened heavy equipment or homes, or extinguish blazes, he said.

In the event of a fire at the Ansley plant, firefighters should check with PIPELINE—Page 5A

Aldermen to eye Waveland security fence infringement

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Saturday will inspect a security fence, installed several years ago around the city's sewage treatment plant and a well, which infringes on private property.

Mayor John Longo suggested the inspection at a Tuesday night board meeting after haggling with Joe Buccola of Bay St. Louis, one of the landowners whose property is involved in the infringement.

The portions of the chain link fence in question and an access gate are located near city property and perpendicular to the end of Gulfside Drive next to Central Fire Station.

One fence section on the north side of the drive is 638 feet long and takes in as much as 30 feet of Buccola's property on one end and narrows to 2.7 feet on the other, his maps indicate.

Within that area the city previously purchased a small rectangular section of property for $1,000 around the well which was erroneously drilled on Buccola's land.

The other fence section south of Gulfside is 156 feet long and infringes on 29.8 feet of property on one end and 23 feet on the other, the map also indicates.

Buccola said that land is owned by J and M Associates, a company which he partially owns.

The property owner repeatedly requested the city move its fences to their proper location and complained he has requested the action for six years.

No board members would respond to his request except Herman Yarborough, City Utility Department superintendent and an alderman, who said if the fence was moved to its proper location, well access would not be possible.

Yarborough explained the well's surface structure was recently enlarged to serve the city's new US-90 water tank and the rectangular section of property purchased is not adequate.

Buccola said he would sell the city the southern section of property within the fence, but does not want to sell the northern strip near the well because that would spoil plans to build a residential subdivision in that area.

Lucien Gex, city attorney threatened that the city could expropriate (take for

School Board accepts $42,000 house bid

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Bids were opened for the repairing of the principal's house at Hancock North Central at the Hancock County School Board meeting Tuesday night.

Prior to voting on the bids, Terrell Randolph, superintendent said, "I consider this the school children's money. We need a building for the emotionally handicapped children in Gulfview. And we need classrooms," he continued.

Randolph, emphasizing the importance of putting this money to use for the school children and not for a principal's house, said, "I'm telling you we don't need to rebuild a principal's house. I disagree with you very strongly. In 30 years you're going to look back and realize you made a mistake."

"I don't think we should even think about the principal's house. We have

Seymour elected Bay Council president

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Wilmer Seymour, Bay St. Louis councilman-at-large, was elected president of the council at a regular meeting Tuesday, with Gene Taylor, vice-president.

Seymour's term runs through June 1984. Harry Favre is the outgoing president.

In other action the Bay Council voted to change the $100 a month allocated to the Bay-Waveland Humane Society to the Hancock County Animal Control Commission.

Council was told by Eddie Favre, city clerk, the $100 a month was used by the Bay-Waveland Humane Society to feed animals when there was no pound.

The new facility was officially opened last week with ribbon cutting ceremonies.

Library's child ID program to continue

The Bay St. Louis Police Department and the Hancock County Library System are extending the Child ID Program because of the response of the public, according to Prima Wusack, library director.

Additional sessions will be held Monday, July 11, 18, and 25 from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the Ulman Street meeting room of the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis.

"More than 200 children were fingerprinted during the three days we conducted the program in June," said Douglas Williams, chief of police.

"Because of this response we feel additional sessions are needed," he continued.

The program is open to any county resident. Children must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

A fingerprint request form must be filled out for each child. The form will be returned to parents after fingerprints are applied.

Parents will also receive a flyer listing identification items which should be kept on file for their children.

For information about the program contact the Bay St. Louis Police Department at 467-9221 or the City-County Library at 467-5262.

Public hearing slated for July 14

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Hancock County Assessor-Tax Collector Edward D. Murtagh Jr. presented land roles—both real and personal—to the County Board of Supervisors Tuesday morning.

The board met Tuesday following the Fourth of July holiday Monday.

Murtagh also advised the supervisors that he would have a comprehensive report on a county reappraisal program at their next meeting July 15. He noted the program should save the county about $1 million.

In other business, the board announced that a public hearing is scheduled for Thursday, July 14 at 10 a.m. on revenue sharing.

The board approved the payment of $100 a month to the new animal shelter located on Gulfside Drive in Waveland for the care and feeding of the animals. The shelter will be supported by three governments, Waveland, Bay St. Louis and the county.

Sam Pernicaro, District Four supervisor announced the new hours for the Catahoula landfill are from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily and on Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. and 3 to 6 p.m. He said a gate is being put up to keep people away from the landfill after hours. Pernicaro noted that way too many fires are being started at the landfill at night.

A clerk will be hired with a minimum salary beginning at $12,000 a year. This will be a full-time job and applications are being accepted until August 15.

James DeBlanc, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission director, presented a commission resolution that was approved accepting the bid of Pat Green Machine and Welding Shop for a light-weight railroad cart.

Kiln-Delisle Road repair not expected until 1984

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Officials report repair or repaving of the crumbling Kiln-Delisle Road in Hancock County by the State Highway Department will not be conducted any earlier than January, 1984.

The road, reconstructed seven years ago in a State Highway Department State Aid Road Division project, extends from Annunciation School in Kiln to the Hancock-Harrison County line and crosses County Districts Three, Four and Five.

Extensive cracking, peeling and potholes in the road are most evident in District Three near the county line.

Roger Dale Ladner, District Three supervisor, said recently the state road aid district engineer is aware of the problem and "in the future" the state will repave the road.

He reported his maintenance crews are patching holes in the road, but this is a "piecemeal approach" because what is needed is a complete repaving job.

James Travirca, District Five supervisor, said recently that the state will have funds available next year to repave the road.

Sam Pernicaro, District Four supervisor, reported recently that two sectional concrete culverts under the road at the Bayou Coco crossing in Kiln have "slipped apart" and will be replaced.

But George Pates, state aid district engineer in Jackson, said Wednesday he is not aware of any major problems with the roadway.

Pates reported his annual December inspection of "secondary" state roads in Hancock found only minor cracking and potholes in Kiln-Delisle.

He revealed that his office has received no formal requests for Kiln-Delisle Road repaving so the state has not yet included this project in its state aid maintenance program next year.

The state can not repave the road before January because based on state regulations the project was not approved by the department prior to July 1, the aid program is broke until it receives 1984 appropriations and a new project can not be approved within six months of a local board of supervisors general election—the Hancock election is in August.

However, Pates said if the Kiln-Delisle Road problem is serious enough, he might inspect it again sometime in August.

When asked if the seven-year-old road deterioration is the result of a defective paving job, the district engineer replied he doesn't know why the road is crumbling except for a report that trucks hauling fill dirt to the E.I. duPont de Nemours Delisle Plant while it was under construction caused damage to both the Kiln-Delisle and Standard-Vidalia Roads.

Pates said the Standard road has been repaved.

He added that the maximum individual truck weight limit on any state aid roads is approximately 57,000 pounds.

The Hancock Board of Supervisors recently reduced the Kiln-Delisle weight limit to 56,700 and imposed a truck speed limit of 35-miles-per-hour.

Pates noted the weight limit on primary roads (major state highways) is about 80,000.

FOREIGN OWNERSHIP OF AGRICULTURAL LAND

QUESTION: As a farmer I am concerned about what will happen to my land if and when I sell it. I have heard that foreign investors own a great deal of farmland in this country and are quickly becoming the largest owners of agricultural land. How much do they own? P. O. Belzoni

ANSWER: Dear P. O.:

A great deal of public attention has been drawn to foreign ownership of agricultural land in the United States during the past 10 years. When energy prices took a dramatic upswing during the 1970s, a few foreign families suddenly found themselves holding millions of dollars.

Naturally, they were interested in an investment that provided safety in terms of risk as well as one that was expected to increase in value. Coupled with the fact that our political system in the United States remains stable, land investments, particularly agricultural land, appeared to be a natural and wise investment for foreigners to consider.

Today, after approximately 10 years of "buying up of all our farmland," foreign investors do not own nearly as much as you might think.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the total land area of the United States is about 2.25 billion acres. Sixty percent of our land is privately owned, 33 percent is owned by the federal government, and seven percent is owned by state and local governments.

Of the privately owned agricultural land, foreigners own slightly less than one percent.

However, more than 50 percent of the land classified as foreign-owned is owned by a corporation in which foreigners own a five percent or greater share of the stock. Thus, the actual percent of ownership is somewhat less than the one percent. Of foreign-owned agricultural land, forest land accounts for about one-half, cropland for 13 percent with the remainder in pasture and other land.

Foreign owners must report their agricultural land holdings and transactions under the 1978 Agricultural Foreign Investment and Disclosure Act. In addition, certain states require disclosure of agricultural land purchases by foreign investors.

A lot has been written and broadcast on Mississippi's new drunk driving law which went into effect on July 1.

The new law is reportedly one of the strongest in the United States, and is being watched by many states.

We read an interesting article in The Rotarian, an International Magazine this month about Norway's no-nonsense drinking while driving law.

It is an old law, and very strict compared with Mississippi's.

A person is considered drunk with a .05, (yes point zero five), blood-alcohol content.

A first conviction nets 21 days in jail, a suspended license for one year, and there are no plea bargainings.

The article goes on to say that even the best lawyer fails to keep one out of jail.

So, it seems Norway really has a law with a bite when it comes to drunk drivers.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society will have a Rummage Sale on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Civic Center on Coleman Avenue.

As you know, the Humane Society over the years has done a fine job with its spay-neuter programs.

We hope many will visit the rummage sale, as we understand they have many very good items to sell.

We hope to see you at the sale.

Saturday and Sunday will be the Annual Our Lady of The Gulf Church Fair, Bay St. Louis.

We have been told by Joe Marochino, chairman of the fair, there will be some good foods available.

We know a lot of work has gone into the big Rummage Sale and also to Live Plant booths.

So, do not forget to visit the fair at Our Lady of The Gulf Church.

Chart gives guide to safe drinking

Below is a chart to be used only as a guide, not a guarantee, to help you stay within safe drinking limits. This table indicates the relationship between the number of drinks consumed by normal adults and their body weight. When approximating blood alcohol content you should remember that the average person eliminates the effects of alcohol at the rate of about one drink per hour.

One drink equals 1 oz. of 80 proof liquor, 12 oz. of beer, or 6 oz. of wine. Subtract .01% for each 40 minutes of drinking.

ADDITIONAL FACTS ON DRUNK DRIVING:

- From the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration:
 - Over 250,000 people lost their lives during the past decade in alcohol-related accidents.
 - The drinking driver problem creates an estimated economic cost of over $5 billion.
 - On an average weekend night, 1 out of every 10 drivers on the road is drunk.
 - 65 percent of drivers who kill themselves in single-car wrecks are drunk.
 - 1 out of every 2 Americans will be involved in an alcohol-related auto crash in his or her lifetime.
 - Of every 2,000 drunk drivers stopped, only 1 is ever arrested.
 - 70 people a day are killed by drunk drivers.
 - 750,000 Americans suffer crippling and other serious injuries every year in drunk driving incidents.

From other sources:

- The Presidential Commission on Drunk Driving has recommended in its interim report that states immediately adopt 21 years of age as the minimum legal drinking age for all alcoholic beverages.

A study by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety has shown that raising the legal drinking age produced an average annual reduction of 22 percent in nighttime fatal crashes involving 18- to 21-year-old drivers.

In the past 2 years, over 30 states have enacted improved drunk driving legislation — ranging from increasing the age limits to providing financial incentives to local governments that crack down on drunk driving.

According to a Dallas lawyer, the way to "get your client off" is to claim police brutality during the arrest. For instance, the lawyer claims that comments, such as, "Isn't it true you kicked him in the leg?", turns the minds of the jurists and/or judge in favor of the defendant.

Minister continues campaign to county out from under five-beat road system

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,
TO: ALL THE CITIZENS OF HANCOCK COUNTY

I earnestly appeal to you now relative to a matter of mutual concern for the welfare and progress of our county i.e., the urgent need for the unit system over the out-moded, the often-times wasteful, corrupt and corrupting beat system for county roads.

Do you know (I didn't until recently) that Hancock County has five roads systems (82 Mississippi Counties have 400) as compared to one for Waveland, and one for Bay St. Louis, one for our state and one for our nation? Do you know of one state or city anywhere large or small with more than one road system?

Do you know that Mississippi spends more per mile on county roads than any other state? Could this fact relate to our state's bottom rating economically?

Do you know that a number of qualified, impartial studies (example Brookings Institute) has been made of our 100 year old beat system and have exclaimed: "Appalling and criminal," "Wasteful," "An open invitation to fraud."

Oklahoma, like Mississippi, is one of the few states still using this archaic system and in recent months about 275 people have been indicted for road crimes with 155 convicted.

Do you know that in our county each supervisor has about $350,000 (in large counties in Mississippi $1,000,000) each to spend on his beat roads with few, if any, checks or balances.

Naturally, they want to keep their "clout" and what they call their "power." Is this right? Is this American? Even the presidents of our nation and their Executive Department are constantly accountable to the Congress and the Supreme Court.

Do you know of any other institution anywhere in government, church, or business, which does not operate collectively but divides its income among five individuals with each spending as he wishes?

Do you know that Sumpter County, Alabama, near Meridian, since 1940, and Coahoma County and Tunica County in our state have used the unit system (supervisors not acting individually but together) in sizable savings, over counties using the beat system.

These savings, likewise, can be made in our county to meet such pressing needs as those for additional jail and hospital facilities.

To summarize: I haven't found a single impartial person who could say anything of merit for the beat system which has a proven record of duplication (rather quintuplication) inefficiency, corruption and waste.

If ours is to be a government of, by, and for all the people and not a government of, by and for the few, we must now inform ourselves and others of the facts.

Also we must emphatically make known to our governor-supervisor candidates, our state representative candidates, and our state senator candidates how we feel.

In the name of economy, and integrity; in the name of our beloved state, let's get off the bottom; in the name of God, let's make this change for progress without delay!

Respectfully,

Dear Sir:

Did you know there is no mail dispatch from Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian and Long Beach on Sundays and holidays? Last October this service was discontinued.

We vitally need this service. It's in the public interest for a growing and progressive area.

Why not contact our leaders in the public and private sector and have this service restored?

I agree with Bonnie Bailey that the present state of the law just isn't fair. I believe that it is up to this Congress to utilize our authority under the Constitution to protect the First Amendment rights of Bonnie Bailey and millions of students like her, who are all too often left unprotected by the courts.

Under our Constitution few issues are more important. I commend Subcommittee Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Kentucky, for his interest to the extent that he was willing to grant my bill this special hearing.

Buccola stated at the Tuesday meeting, "If you all (the board) are going to take it (the land), tell it... I'm tired of waiting!"

He said he was willing to sell all of his property north of Gulside which consists of about two acres for $30,000.

Longo laughed at the proposal and stated, "We wanted to negotiate a deal for $1,000 or $500."

Buccola said selling the narrow strip would deprecate his remaining property.

Longo said the city would either buy all of Buccola's land for a cemetery or expropriate the narrow strip.

Buccola offered to provide the city an easement for well access.

As Buccola left the meeting, Longo and Gex joked about the property in question overlooking the nearby Hancock County Animal Shelter and sewage plant.

In another matter, the board authorized a $2,095 final payment for construction of the animal shelter to Southern Builders of Pass Christian pending a Saturday inspection of the building.

Varborough reported the windows in the facility do not open easily.

The board agreed to also inspect the shelter along with the fence.

Also, Alton Prudhomme of 716 St. Anthony St. complained of poor drainage in that area and requested the city to remedy the problem.

Longo said a culvert would be installed as soon as the rainy weather subsides.

already spent $120,000 on principal's houses and I don't think we need to spend any more of the children's money," Randolph said.

Addressing the board, Randolph said, "I think I want to remind you I'm hired by the people of Hancock County to work in their best interest, there are four houses up in Hancock North Central now. We need to spend this money on the children. We need science equipment. We need classrooms," Randolph added.

Amid protests, the board accepted a low bid of $42,000 for the repairing of the house and $1,900 for a heatilator and brick fireplace to be added to the house, from J&S Service Co., Inc. of Picayune.

Following the meeting, Randolph said, "That house will stand as a memorial to very poor planning."

Sam Ladner, president of the PTA at Hancock North Central Elementary

School, was in the audience along with several other teachers and parents who attempted to be recognized by the board.

They were at the meeting to present a proposal for the building of an elementary activities building to be constructed on a 100 x 80 foot slab already located at Hancock North Central Elementary School. The price for the activities building is $43,000. They would have liked to see the money for the principal's house expended for a building for the children, said Randolph.

"This is the fourth or fifth time over the last five years that the proposal has been presented," said Randolph. And added, "The children do not have any type of building for activities. They have to stay in the classrooms when the weather is cold or it is raining."

"I think sometimes the board forgets that schools are for children," Randolph said.

"The board of directors are just trustees of the taxpayer's money. Before any of them make a decision, they should ask themselves, 'Is this in the best interest of the school children? And then if they can answer yes to that to then go ahead with their decision.'

He said the plant can be completely shut down in the event of a fire.

In 21 years of operation not one man has been injured and no 'major' fire has occurred at the Ansley station, Blazier said.

He feels because of that good record not many people even know that the plant exists.

public use) Buccola's fenced property.

But Buccola said he disagreed because the city initially infringed upon his land.

"I have 20 years experience..." Gex said regarding his profession.

Buccola also charged the city placed a large sewage line under his property.

Longo said the board has had to deal with several property owners of the adjacent private land.

At a previous board meeting and discussion of the infringement, Attorney John Scafide of Bay St. Louis reported the property adjacent to the city property is jointly owned by Buccola, Joe Marochino, Horace Thompson and Alice Scafide.

The attorney reported the land was being divided among the four owners.

Regarding the markers, Cates reported the underground pipeline is buried at least 30 inches under the surface, and its location identified with white and orange posts directly above the ground.

Cates emphasized that even if a line is struck Tennessee Gas should be contacted because the pipe must be recoated to prevent premature rusting and leakage.

The pipeline under roads is double-cased for safety and is buried beneath stream bottoms, he said.

Cates added that the person damaging a line must pay for its repair.

He noted Tennessee Gas does not "odorize" natural gas so it has no smell here, but the retailers whom they sell to do add an odorous substance as a safety measure.

Miss Hospitality judges to chose from 69

In a few weeks, 69 young Mississippi women will arrive on the Gulf Coast for the 1983 Miss Hospitality Pageant. For one of them, an exciting year of travel promoting Mississippi's tourism attractions and business opportunities lies ahead.

Sponsored by the Tourism Division, Mississippi Department of Economic Development, the pageant is scheduled for July 27-30, with coronation ceremonies Saturday evening in the Coast Coliseum.

Judges for this year's event are Diana Orban, president of Diana Orban and Associates, a New York public relations firm; Don Cunningham, vice president and director of travel and trade relations for Southern Living Magazine in Atlanta, Georgia; and Bruce Michaud, chairman of the board for Michaud Tours, Inc., in Salem, Massachusetts.

Qualities they will be searching for are personality, intelligence, poise, speaking ability and attractiveness.

"The Miss Hospitality program is now in its 34th year, and has been an important part of Department of Economic Development activities," said George Williams, Tourism Division director.

"The participation of the young lady selected in July will be even more significant in the coming year because of Mississippi's involvement in the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans," he said.

Miss Hospitality for the 1983-84 will be crowned in ceremonies Saturday, July 30, in the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Highlighting the show will be the appearance of popular Mississippi recording artist

Award-winning series that aired on network television in 1978, returns to the air for a run on public television at 9 p.m., Tuesdays, beginning July 12, on the Mississippi ETV

Network.

The 12-part series follows true-life medical events with real doctors and patients. No actors are used, and real events dictate the drama of each episode as doctors are followed through their daily lives, on duty and off.

In the first program of July

12, Dr. Judson Graves Randolph, a surgeon, treats an infant born with a swallowing tube that doesn't connect to the child's stomach and also a young child with a mysterious mass in one lung.

Compassion and respect are evident as doctors and patients confront medical challenges. Tiny, premature babies and a six-year-old boy who bounces back from 20 hours of surgery on his brain demonstrate strength many people never know they have.

Ag Affairs

Mississippi Farm
Bureau FederationA TREASURE
IN GRAVEL

Mississippi's naturally occurring, large volume of gravel, found in streambeds or deposited in embankments, amounts to a massive natural resource because of the variety and richness of stone types, colors, shapes and geological contents.

Probably few indeed are the persons who may visit this state's interesting gravel bars, or walk casually along a gravel roadbed, that do not feel compelled to pick up, examine and occasionally pocket particularly interesting pebbles which represent the natural history of the earth.

Some of these people pick up the picking up habit, and are known as rock hounds. The more serious collectors of these stones may eventually grind and polish their best specimens in a home lapidary shop, thus creating colorful, attractively shaped and finished stones that are used in ornamental ways.

The more curious or astute collectors may muse over the origin of stones they find and save them as souvenirs of places or events. Still others may take them all for granted.

Recently we visited a gravel bar on the Fair River in Lawrence county where we collected a bucketful of unusual rocks. These included banded agates in various hues and especially attractive specimens of both opaque and translucent quartz.

The latter's journey, of millions of years through the waterway system had worn them down into spherical jellybean-like stones in pure white and pink colors.

Fragments of petrified wood were worn into rounded rock patterns. There were deep orange jaspers, geodes, banded chert, and various fossils of ancient marine life—all worn by tumbling along the streambeds into fascinating shapes.

We carried a bucketful of collected stones to the Mississippi Geological Survey office in Jackson and conferred with geologist Bill Gilliland about our findings.

Despite a report in this column several years ago about a possible future gravel shortage in this state, Gilliland reports that Mississippi now has a vast supply of gravel yet locked up in the soil so that we shouldn't worry about exhausting this resource. Over half of Mississippi gravel production is utilized as aggregate in concrete.

Compared with some other states, Mississippi's gravel is unusually colorful. The most common type is an opaque tan hue commonly used on road surfaces, and which is dug from gravel pits well mixed with clay. This clay gravel in its natural state is an excellent roadbed material.

After being washed of all foreign matter, most gravel goes into concrete making. Today man-made stone panels are popular for modern buildings using brown pebbles for a finish.

Such panels are especially attractive in color, and do not reflect light as regular concrete. Brown gravel is widely used by landscape designers and currently is utilized on footpaths through the gardens at the White House.

Some states have very small gravel deposits, and crush natural stone to use instead.

This material is not as attractive as gravel, however. The gravel deposits in Mississippi are not native to the state, but tumbled here in stream currents over millions of years from mountainous bedrock sources in the Appalachian and Ouachita-Ozark ranges.

In fact, Gilliland reports that Mississippi's great diversity of pebble colors and forms benefits from the great distances the pebbles traveled from widely diverse bedrock types. They slowly were borne downstream by floods and normal currents, settling for a time on sandbars or sometimes silting into the earth as streams changed courses.

Mainstream pebbles continued to get more rounded and attractive the farther they traveled toward the mouth of the stream.

The Fair River's gravel bars last week were particularly well stocked with banded agates as a result of spring floods that surfaced and deposited a new crop.

These stones, when wet or polished, reveal intrinsic designs, colors and imbedded materials, including fossils which may be utilized for many ornamental uses.

Mississippi's abundant supply of gravel is extracted primarily in a wide band across south Mississippi, in the hills adjacent to the delta region, and in the extensive northeast counties adjoining Alabama.

ETV Brief

The sharks are back on Mississippi ETV. The popular 1982 National Geographic Special, "The Sharks," that presented a view of the creatures as "maligned" and victims of sensationalist publicity, can be seen at 8 p.m., Wednesday, July 13, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

According to the program, fear is usually the operative emotion where sharks are concerned. The National Geographic film provides a new perspective.

Clinton Ladner announces candidacy for office of District Two supervisor

Clinton (Sonny) Ladner, 43, announces his candidacy for the office of District Two supervisor.

Ladner and his wife, Cecelia have three children, Grandy, 16; Brandi and Mandi, both 3-years-old.

A life long resident of the coast, Ladner is presently employed with Pan-Am as a heavy equipment foreman.

He attended Hancock County schools and served in the Army Reserve.

Ladner says, "I want each and everyone to know that I totally understand the importance of improving roads and bridges throughout our country. I don't believe that we who live along county roads have to accept second class roads as a way of life."

"We pay just as much taxes into county government and therefore have every right to expect a road system of comparable quality."

Continuing Ladner said, "I bring with me 16 years of experience in road and bridge maintenance programs which I earned with a number of support contractors at the government's NASA-NSTL facility here in our county."

"I have excellent knowledge of civil engineering standards and specifications applicable to roads and bridges. This is a skill not frequently found among candidates for supervisor and one that I can utilize effectively to benefit us all."

"I can and will upgrade the quality of our secondary roads. Though the road surface is a critical concern to those of us who know the high cost of cars and trucks, I also understand the hazards associated with allowing trees and bushes to grow in areas where line-of-sight is critical such as curves and intersections. I will implement and vigorously monitor programs designed to ensure maximum safety for all of us."

Ladner said, "I am qualified to maintain your roads and bridges but, of even greater importance to the majority I am also qualified to contribute to improved management of the taxpayer's resources."

"Budget administration is a supervisor's responsibility most often not adequately emphasized. The old practice of five men meeting and dividing available resources among all groups and agencies with a hand out is not in our best interest. I believe that your tax dollars should be allocated on a priority basis and in a man-tion agencies to tighten their belts to allow available funds for non-critical agencies such as supervisor conventions. I am convinced that your tax dollars are all too often disbursed by the board of supervisors in a manner designed to benefit them politically. Your best interest will always be first and foremost in my mind," Ladner continued.

"I want to be your supervisor. I have a sincere interest in the growth and development of our area and realize that it will not happen without leadership from the board of supervisors."

"Let me put my energy and innovations to work for you. I want your vote and support on the basis that I can and will be an asset to your and our country. There should be no other reason to vote for any candidate."

Licensing act regulates child care facilities

Every weekday, more than 1,100 child care centers in Mississippi open their doors to some 65,000 children under age six whose parents or guardians must report to work. As more families must count on two-parent incomes, so grows the need for safe, healthy child care facilities.

The Mississippi Child Care Licensing Act of 1972 is designed to insure a healthy and safe environment plus concerned child care supervisors.

"The Mississippi State Department of Health established and enforces regulations to assure minimum standards of cleanliness and safety at child care facilities," said Sherry Pinnix, director of Child Care and Special Licensure for the agency.

Child care centers —any facility or home which shelters more than five children under age six—must provide staff and space adequate for the number of children sheltered; provide a well heated, lighted, and ventilated area; and provide bathrooms and a diaper changing area.

Nap pads and beds must conform to licensing requirements. An inspection of the facility by the fire department and approval of the local health department before a license can be issued assure basic safety precautions.

Licensed day care centers must have a telephone. Laundry equipment must be separate from the food preparation area. The playground, enclosed by a fence, must adequately accommodate the number of children at the center.

Day care facilities are also required to provide adequate and nutritious meals plus a program of developmental activities for children in their care.

Immunizations are required for all children attending child care centers. Records must be kept of any medications administered with written permission from the parent or physician.

"Licensing requirements are minimum standards only," Ms. Pinnix said. "Conditions at facilities vary. Parents may determine which center offers the best care for their child by visiting the center, talking to the owner or operator, and cooperating to make the center the best that it can be."

"More help in selecting a child care center is offered through the Mississippi State Department of Health, Bureau of Environmental Health, Child Care and Special Licensure.

In "The History of the S.S." at 9 p.m. is a compilation of interviews with former S.S. officers, historians and victims and archival film. "The Great Art Dictator" immediately afterwards, at approximately 10:07 p.m., traces Hitler's ill-fated plan for the world's greatest art collection commemorating himself and the Third Reich.

In "The History of the S.S." the documentary examines members of Hitler's "Schutzstaffel," or "protection squad." They were a cadre of cold-blooded professional killers, according to the program, trained to eradicate the enemy from within and without.

"The Great Art Dictator" looks at the fate of contemporary artists under Hitler's official art policy, which virtually outlawed all modern art in Germany for over a decade.

Right-hander was Rock's 'Most Valuable'

Gus Aime signs with PRC

Pearl River College's baseball coach Ned Eades has the commitments of seven outstanding freshmen baseball players.

Eades, who led the Wildcats to a 32-12 overall mark this past year, said two players who committed earlier to Pearl River College will not be joining the 'Cats this fall.

Pitcher-shortstop Jacob Broomfield of Hammond, La., has been drafted by the Chicago Cubs and his teammate Bryan Aschraft, a left-handed pitcher, has been given a full scholarship to attend a college in Texas. Mississippi junior colleges are not allowed to give scholarships.

Eades said Mark Dangerfield, also a member of the Hammond High's 1983 state playoff team in Quad A competition, will be joining the 'Cats this fall. Dangerfield is a pitcher and third baseman, who hit .456 and posted a 5-1 record on the mound.

Other out-of-state players joining the Wildcats will be Bastrop's (La.) Ronald Heckford and Sonny Nason.

Nason, a lefthander, graduated from Bastrop High, had an 8-1 record with a 1.20 earned run average. He struck out 53 in 47 innings. Heckford, a third baseman and catcher, is a graduate of Prairie View High in the same town.

District stars committed to the Wildcats are Bay St. Louis' Gus Aime, Hattiesburg's Mike Summers, Columbia's Mark Pritchard and Forrest County's Scotty Stanley.

Aime, a recent participant in the Mississippi Junior College All-Star Game, was a right-handed pitcher for St. Stanislaus. He posted a 7-3 record and was most valuable player for the Rock-A-Chawas.

Summers, a second baseman from Blair High, hit .355 and was named the tiger's best defensive player this past year and made all Hattiesburg area. He was also a member of the 1981 Junior World Series Champs from Hattiesburg.

Pritchard was a pitcher and second baseman for the Columbia Wildcats who was runner-up in the Class-A championship game this past spring. Stanley is a hard throwing left-handed pitcher from Forrest County Agricultural High School.

Study of Mississippi Sound pollutants brings Conservation award to couple

The Mississippi Wildlife Federation has selected two Sea Grant chemists, a husband and wife team, as the 1983 Air and Water Conservationists of the Year.

Dr. James I. Jones, director of the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, said Drs. Julia and Thomas Lytle will receive the award at the 1983 Governor's Conservation Achievement Awards banquet on August 6 in Natchez.

Jones nominated the husband-wife team in recognition of their research on pollutant movement in Mississippi Sound.

Dr. Julia Lytle is head of the environmental chemistry section at Gulf Coast Research Institute in Ocean Springs, one of the consortium's nine member institutions.

Dr. Thomas Lytle is head of the analytical chemistry section at GCR.

The Lytles recently completed a four-year Sea Grant project that pointed to petroleum-derived hydrocarbons as the dominant pollutants in Mississippi Sound.

The research chemists found that pollutants accumulate close to their source instead of moving into the open Sound from rivers.

Their findings show that pollutants are not broadly distributed in the eastern Sound," Jones said. "Instead pollution consists of several localized, severely polluted regions surrounded by areas of relatively clean sediments."

Through extensive sampling and analysis of Mississippi Sound bottom sediments, the Lytles have identified, rated and mapped regions in the Sound that are potentially harmful "hot spots" environmentally.

The Sea Grant team plans to produce a series of technical and non-technical pamphlets based on their work in order to handle the flow of questions they are receiving from scientists, governmental planners and individuals, Jones said.

MOST VALUABLE—Kelly Geroux of Bay St. Louis, Pearl River College's outstanding second baseman this past year, was named the Most Valuable Player for the South team in the first annual Mississippi Junior College All-Star game recently in Meridian. Geroux, an All-Region 23 and All-State player for the Wildcats, is shown here with this trophy after the South lost to the North All-Stars 4-1. Geroux's teammates Mike Herndon of Hattiesburg and Phil Parsons of Picayune also participated in the event. Geroux hit a double and single to lead the South at the plate and had an excellent day defensively.

Teams scrambling for second place in softball league

In the Bay-Waveland Church Softball League action this past week the race for second place continues to be hotly contested between the Episcopals and OLG-2.

OLG-2 currently holds a one-game edge with victories over the Methodists and the Baptists while the Episcopals were upset by the Methodists.

OLG-2 has two games remaining with first place OLG-1 and a head-to-head confrontation with the Episcopals, and the Episcopals have two games remaining against the last place Baptists. An OLG-2 win over the Episcopals would assure them at least a second place tie, while a loss would virtually assure the Episcopals second place.

The double-elimination tournament will start next Thursday, July 14, and conclude on July 26.

TEENAGE RUNNERUP—Derek Vest, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arley Vest of Bay St. Louis, placed second in the Teenage Division of the Mr. New Orleans Body Building Championships recently at Abramson High School. Vest also took overall Best Poser and Best Legs titles in the event. (Photo by Jimmy Lohrano)

FIRST AID FACTS

Poolside Tips

To keep your family healthy and in the swim this summer, set up stand pool safety rules.

Statistics show that more than 2,400 young children drown each year. Youngsters should be taught to enjoy the water but with a healthy respect. Some rules you might consider:

- No young child should swim or play in the water without adult supervision.

Back yard pools attract youngsters. Keep your pool fenced and locked. NEVER leave a ladder or steps near an above-ground pool unless adults are present.

Water safety instructions

tion should be a part of every family's summer. Include swimming lessons, good behavior in and around pools and life saving courses, especially mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Such lessons can and will save lives.

SOFTBALL SIGNEE

Pitcher Robin Witaker, of Nashville, Tenn., has signed a grant-in-aid scholarship agreement with the University of Southern Mississippi according to Lady Eagle head coach Laura Porello. She is USM's first softball signee of the year.

Witaker was recently named to the all-Nashville Interscholastic League's coaches for the second straight year.

The newest Lady Eagle, whose pitches include a fastball, change-up, curve and drop, posted a 17-5 record last year.

Massive Local Hiring, Purchases and Subcontracts Spread Economic Benefits of Pascagoula Open Shop Project.

greater than the number of local direct employees.

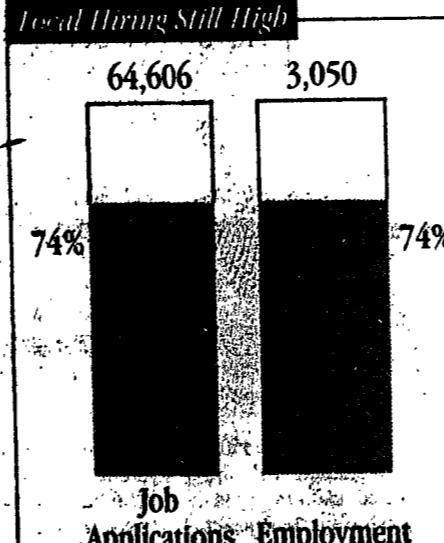

Training is Vital

Training — both in structured classes and on-the-job — is a vital part of Brown & Root's open shop operation. Many willing and able people without prior experience are able to gain skills, by working as helpers under experienced craftsmen. Many others advance their skills, cross-train for new crafts, and learn supervisory skills in Brown & Root-developed courses.

Since construction began nearly three years ago, Brown & Root — as prime contractor for the project — has hired about 10,500 people. At peak employment, in August of 1982, the workforce totalled 5,268. Total hiring, compared with peak employment figures, shows an exceptionally low rate of employee turnover on the project. This is due in part to the loyalty and motivation of large numbers of local residents employed, as well as to Brown & Root's flexible open shop policies, which encourage qualified people to remain on the job through many phases of construction.

Those highly trained people are an important and lasting benefit to local communities.

Local Hiring Still High

At the beginning of May 3,050 people were employed by Brown & Root at Pascagoula. Local residents — those living within a 70-mile commuting radius, including parts of Mississippi and adjacent Alabama — totalled 2,257, or 74% of the workforce.

Local hiring on the project closely parallels the percentage of local job applicants. Of nearly 65,000 applications taken by Brown & Root since before the start of work, 47,808, or 74%, are from local residents.

As on all Brown & Root open shop projects, all hiring was done directly through our personnel office in Pascagoula.

Jobs and payrolls are only part of the economic benefits returned to local communities where Brown & Root works. Purchases of equipment and materials from local companies created many additional dollars in wages and salaries, bank deposits and taxes.

To date, Brown & Root has purchased $65 million worth of goods locally for the Pascagoula project. A partial list includes pipe, electrical and instrumentation materials, building supplies, engineering and office supplies, insulation, mechanical supplies and equipment, safety supplies, welding supplies, and tools.

Subcontracts Add Dollars

Many additional local business and professional firms share in the economic rewards of Brown & Root projects through subcontracts. Brown & Root has awarded nearly $28 million for such subcontracts to local firms during the course of construction. Some of the services covered include: guard service, portable buildings, fencing, hauling, concrete and asphalt paving, erosion control, water well drilling, dredging, diving, cleaning, testing and equipment repair.

The total of all local people benefiting from Brown & Root's presence in the community is, thus, substantially

Open Shop, Open Opportunities

Typical of Brown & Root projects, on which open shop hiring and advancement policies are the rule, many local people have advanced in position and earnings on the project as a result of their demonstrated ability and individual merit.

People who acquire or upgrade skills under Brown & Root's open shop policies are increasingly able to provide better lives for themselves and their families and contribute to community growth.

A Promise, A Commitment

It has long been Brown & Root's policy to share as fully as possible the economic and other benefits of our work with communities where we work. Our adherence to open shop policies makes it possible for us to concentrate hiring in jobsite communities, to provide opportunities for local people to learn and advance and to respond positively to local needs.

Conglomerates offering money services

By NORINE BARNES
Consumer Specialist

One-stop shopping used to mean being able to get a quart of milk and quart of motor oil at the same store.

If federal deregulation of banking institutions continues, the one-stop concept may soon include financial conglomerates that offer nearly all types of financial services.

Currently, several large corporations offer many of the services normally associated with banks and savings and loan associations.

Sears Roebuck and Co. has been offering home and automobile insurance for years. In stores in the Northeast the company now offers stocks and bonds, mutual funds, real estate, and credit cards that can be used in other stores.

Other corporations already affiliated with a portion of the financial market are expanding. For example, one stock brokerage organization is now offering various types of insurance and becoming involved in real estate.

Banks and savings and loan associations are governed by a network of federal and state regulations which prevent them from branching across state lines, becoming involved in domestic investment banking, or carrying out extensive subsidiary activity.

The rules governing banks and savings and loan associations were, in many cases, designed to protect the depositor from careless and unscrupulous bankers.

Since the near-banks do not accept deposits, but use their own money to transact business, they are not subject to many of the regulations that limit the activities of banks and savings and loan associations.

Many of the traditional institutions, the banks and savings and loan associations, are encouraging legislation that will allow them to compete effectively with the less regulated and restrained "own-money" organizations.

The current regulations separating insurance companies, banks and consumer finance, and investment brokerages are fading. The foundation for future conglomerates is being laid. The real question, however, is whether American consumers want this type of banking convenience, or prefer to pick and choose among more specialized vendors.

Several large corporations, American Express, Sears, and Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner and Smith Inc., are betting large sums that consumers will choose the conglomerate style of banking.

WATCHING WILDLIFE

"Wild America," the 10-part series devoted exclusively to American wildlife, will be rebroadcast on the Mississippi ETV Network at 7:30 p.m., Thursdays, beginning July 7. It was first seen on ETV last fall.

Award-winning naturalist and filmmaker Marty Stouffer spent ten years filming the series. In the first program, "Watching Wildlife," viewers are told when, where and how to observe native wild animals, whether the viewer is watching the birds at the backyard feeder or an elk herd in a national park.

Other programs will focus on baby wild animals, the grizzly bear and the wild dog family — wolves, coyotes and foxes.

Each program in the series will be rebroadcast at 2 p.m., Fridays.

TENNESSEE

A documentary about Mississippi-born playwright Tennessee Williams and the South he wrote about will be telecast at 10 p.m., Friday, July 8, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Completed before his death earlier this year, "Tennessee Williams' South" features interviews with the playwright and re-enactments of some of Williams' most famous characters with Burl Ives, Colleen Dewhurst, Jessica Tandy and Maureen Stapleton.

Williams also recited some of his own poetry, and at the end of the documentary he reads the opening monologue of his play "Outerury."

WEAVERS RETURN

The Weavers' 1980 concert at Carnegie Hall will be rebroadcast at 9 p.m., Saturday, July 9, on the Mississippi ETV Network. "The Weavers: Wasn't That a Time" was first seen on ETV earlier this spring.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION—How many Americans regularly use cocaine?

- a) 1 million
- b) 4 million
- c) 8 million
- d) 12 million

ANSWER—According to a recent article in Time magazine, 4 to 5 million Americans regularly (at least monthly) use the powerful stimulant drug cocaine. Of this group, drug counselors estimate that 5% to 20%—at least 200,000, perhaps 1 million—are now profoundly dependent on cocaine, a new corps as numerous as heroin addicts. During the past couple of years, the number of Americans who have used the drug climbed from 15 million to 20 million and is still rising; every day some 5,000 neophytes sniff a line of coke for the first time.

Correct answer—b.

For further information about alcohol and drug abuse write: Dr. Paul G. Jones, II, Executive Director, Christian Action Commission, P.O. Box 530, Jackson, MS 39205.

STRANGE HEART DEFECTS

Already one million Americans die annually of heart and circulation disease and the number increases yearly. But recently a team of physicians reported that they have discovered curious defects inside the hearts of some patients who die suddenly. They suspect that long, heavy use of various tranquilizers might be a cause of the heart trouble. These doctors also believe that some of the drugs used to treat hypertension could be responsible for the type of rhythm that might affect the heart's electrical conduction system and hence, its rhythm. In the scientific world, the Chiropractic profession has already shown that it can offer help with the nervous electrical system of the body. It's a fact that one of the great benefits of Chiropractic care lies in its ability to protect and help the nervous system to function at its best performance. The preventive benefits of Chiropractic care are unmatched in the healing arts world. For good protection, see your doctor of Chiropractic.

Pearl River College's 83-84 budget approaches $5.7 mil

Pearl River College's Board of Trustees approved a $5,677,711 operational budget for the 1983-84 school year during the recent regular June meeting.

Anticipated revenue for the college during the next school year includes $1,069,000 from student fees; $701,500 from county support; $3,560,948 in state support; $196,263 from federal support and $150,000 in other sales and services.

According to Ron Holmes, PRC's business manager, the new budget is up $693,192 over last year's revised budget of $4,984,519.

The 1983-84 summary statement of expenditures lists $1,163,182 for academic instructional cost; $2,106,892 for vocational-technical instructional support; $130,462 for library support; $533,107 for student services; $650,312 institutional support and $809,481 for operation of plant. The revenue contingency reserve is $284,275.

Dr. Marvin R. White, president of Pearl River College, gave the board an outline of financial support from each of the six counties supporting the college.

The 1982-83 financial support by county included $160,000 from Forrest; $177,375 from Hancock; $71,700 from Jefferson Davis; $185,378 from Lamar; $149,005 from Marion and $275,848 from Pearl River.

Dr. White also informed the PRC Board that the largest percentage of PRC's enrollment is made up of Pearl River County students. According to last fall's status, 484 students enrolled at Pearl River College, came from either Poplarville, Picayune or Pearl River Central high schools.

Lamar County students number 227, Forrest County 218, Marion County 163, Hancock County 157, and Jefferson Davis County 104. These figures do not include students at the Hancock, Lamar, or Forrest County centers.
